Our Understanding.

Westmarq is at the start of an ambitious transformation. The technology strategy and direction of travel have been set at senior level. Richard and the leadership team, supported by fractional Transformation Director Tim Thompson, are clear about where they want to take the business. The next step is a full-time technology leader who can own that strategy and deliver it day to day.

The volume of transformation work now needs five-day-a-week leadership. So Westmarq is investing in a permanent CTO who can take the strategy and turn it into delivery across engineering, change, data and BI, information security and IT service. This is a genuinely broad, hands-on role. It suits someone who enjoys being close to the detail and the team, rather than a traditional corporate CTO who is used to large layers of management.

The CTO will inherit a team with some real talent. The team consists of people who are highly capable and keen to progress, and they will benefit from a leader who can grow their knowledge and experience. Change and IT support are in good shape and cyber is well understood. Engineering and data are the two areas where the new CTO will make the biggest immediate impact. There will be some performance management challenges across the team, so this role requires a strong people leader.

About Westmarq.

Westmarq is a national surveying business. It was formerly Legal & General Surveying Services and has now rebranded as Westmarq. The business provides lenders with property valuations and data to support their lending decisions. It has kept its existing surveying teams and lender relationships while it develops its technology and data services.

That makes this an exciting moment. Westmarq combines a trusted heritage, experienced RICS-qualified surveyors and strong lender relationships with a clear ambition to lead the market through better data and technology. Managing Director Richard Sexton has described Westmarq as representing where the business is going. This appointment is central to that journey.

Role Profile.

Reporting to the Executive Director and leading a small team, you will shape and deliver a clear technology and digital strategy that supports Kisimul's mission and the outcomes of the children and young people it serves. You will be accountable for the performance, security, and resilience of the organisation's systems and infrastructure, while championing the smarter use of data to inform decision-making at every level. As a visible member of the senior leadership team, you will build strong relationships across the organisation, translating complex technical topics into practical solutions that colleagues can trust and use with confidence.

This is an opportunity for an experienced technology leader who combines strategic vision with a hands-on, collaborative approach. You will manage key supplier relationships and budgets, oversee major change and improvement projects, and ensure robust governance around cyber security, information management, and compliance. Working closely with the IT Manager and wider stakeholders, you will foster a culture of continuous improvement and innovation, helping Kisimul make the most of digital opportunities as it continues to grow.

Our Approach.

We will leave no stone unturned in finding the right person for your role, combining direct headhunting, market mapping and our established network to reach every credible candidate in the market, so that the shortlist you see is the best available, not simply the best who applied.

How we get it right

Market Mapping & Headhunting.

Before the search begins, we'll agree the focus of our approach with you, based on your person specification. This will cover the specific job types and sectors we target, the individual candidates we identify and approach directly about the role, and a target list of organisations likely to be employing relevant people.

Maximising our Network.

With over 16 years established in the market, our network and database are second to none. We move quickly to target the most relevant candidates in your sector, delivering high-quality shortlists of proven individuals we can personally validate through our extensive knowledge of the market.

Online Attraction.

Advertising online reaches active and passive candidates nationwide. We would promote the role across the leading senior and executive job boards and on our own website, which sees over 7,000 monthly users, supported by daily posts to our 165,000-follower LinkedIn page. Our resourcing team then maps the wider market to build a full long list of potential candidates.

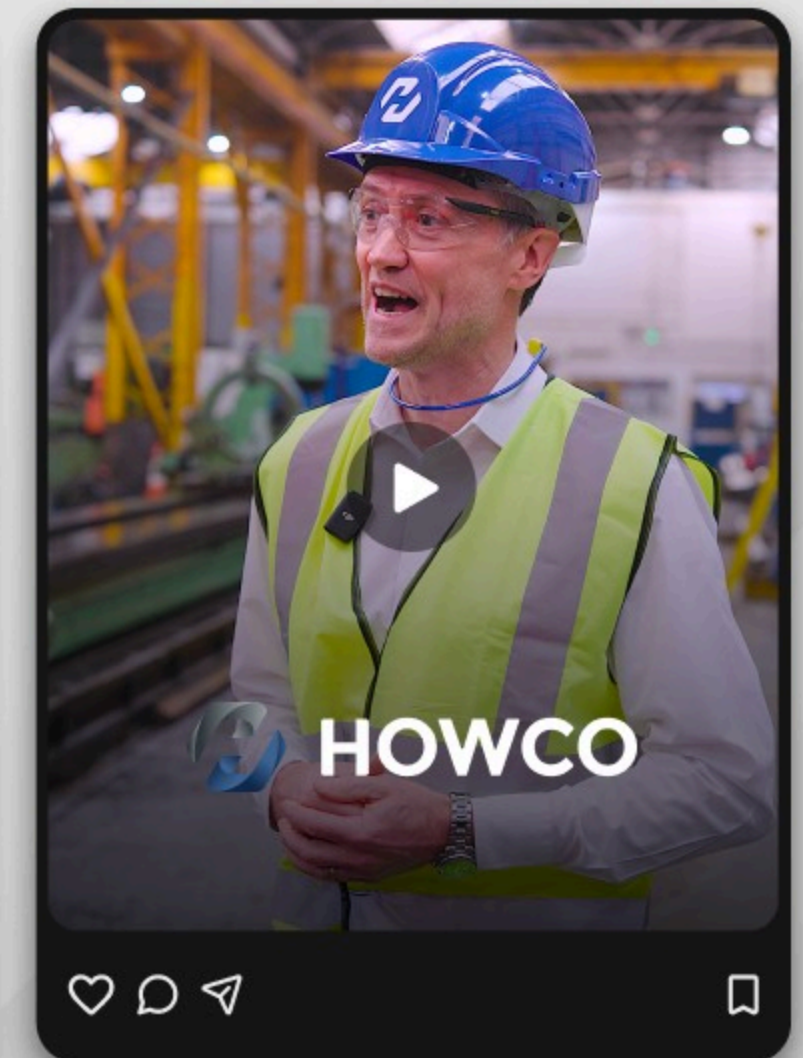

LinkedIn RPS & Insights.

Our LinkedIn access allows us to identify and approach relevant individuals directly, wherever they sit in the market. We also subscribe to LinkedIn Insights, giving us live data analytics on your competitors and detailed profiles of the people we want to target.

Branded Campaigns.

Design and video media.

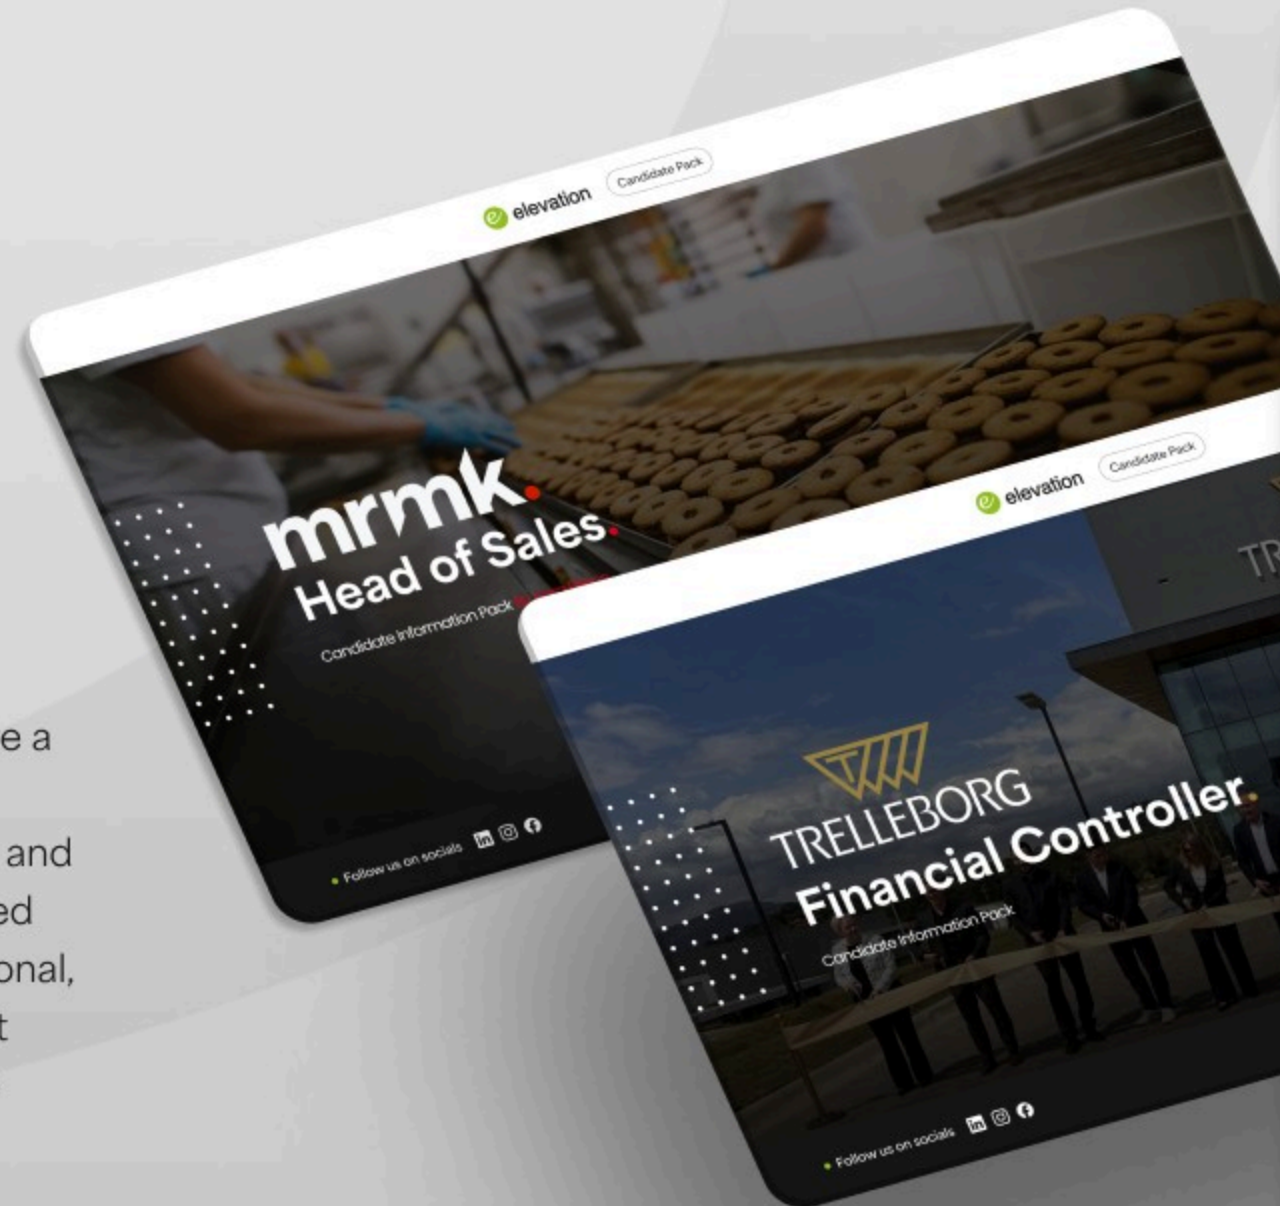

Bespoke creative that gets seen. Our design work is built entirely around your brand voice, ensuring every static asset feels like a natural extension of your business. We then bring these visuals to life through animation, adding movement and personality that helps a role stand out in busy feeds. For a more personal, authentic touch, our video content is filmed on-site, capturing the real culture, people and environment of your business to give candidates a genuine feel for what it's like to work with you.

Candidate Packs.

The Business, Unpacked.

To support candidates through their decision-making process, we produce bespoke candidate packs. These give a clear, compelling insight into the business behind the opportunity, including role profiles, company background and what makes working at your business unique. Fully branded to match your identity, each pack is polished and professional, ensuring candidates receive a consistent, high-quality first impression that reflects the calibre of the business they're being introduced to.

Search Process.

A structured three stage process that keeps momentum from day one, with timescales built around the urgency of the role and the realities of candidate availability.

Stage 1

Briefing & Consultation.

- ✓ Meet with all key stakeholders.
- ✓ Sign off job specification, candidate brief and marketing.
- ✓ Agree timeframes and commence search.

Stage 2

Search, Screening & Shortlisting.

- ✓ Full market mapping through searching, headhunting, and networking, and contact any suitable candidates already registered, screened, and interviewed by us.
- ✓ Interview suitable candidates from our long list, subjecting each to rigorous screening and benchmarking against the agreed requirements.
- ✓ Hold regular update meetings backed by mandate reports, and present a shortlist of recommended candidates for first-stage interviews.

Projected Timeframe: 4 weeks to cv presentation

Stage 3

Interview Process.

- ✓ Arrange all interviews.
- ✓ Organise testing or references on request.
- ✓ Manage the offer process from salary to notice period and start dates.

About me.

I lead the Technology & Transformation division at Elevation Recruitment Group, partnering with businesses across Yorkshire, the East Midlands, and the wider North of England to hire exceptional tech talent - fast.

With over 25 years' experience in recruitment and a specialism in technology and digital transformation, I bring genuine market knowledge to every search. My focus areas include SAP/ERP, Business Analysis, Digital Transformation, Data & BI, and senior tech leadership - covering both permanent and contract/interim appointments, from SMEs through to large enterprise organisations.

Typical roles include IT Director, Head of Transformation, Business Analyst, SAP Consultant, Data & BI specialist, Cyber Security professionals, and more. Whether you're scaling a team, delivering a critical programme, or navigating a complex transformation, I will ensure the right people are in place to make it happen.

As a Board Director at Elevation Recruitment Group, I bring a perspective that goes beyond pure recruitment. As a former business owner, Managing Director, and Non-Executive Director, I am uniquely placed to advise and support both clients and candidates - understanding the commercial pressures, leadership challenges, and career decisions that matter most.
